Unique free learning event for SIOs – book now!

The Investigator is holding another in its series of workshops that looks at the vital role technology now plays in major crime investigations.

Organised in a conference format, the event will involve speakers from the UK police service and industry who will share their experiences about the challenges and best practice around using technology in their investigations. The day is an ideal opportunity to share your experiences and debate the issues, whilst connecting with other colleagues and industry specialists.

Running alongside the workshop agenda, there will be seven of the top technology companies exhibiting innovative solutions in areas including digital forensics, investigation software and imagery enhancement solutions.

Speaker line-up

Included in the line-up across both days are:

- DCI Martin Peters, Head of Cyber Crime and Economics, Eastern Region Special Operations Unit (ERSOU)
